Please Be Fabulous
THEATER ETIQUETTE

- While COVID-19 is still circulating, WE HIGHLY RECOMMEND YOU KEEP A FACE MASK ON AT ALL TIMES while in the theatre - except when you briefly lower your mask to eat or drink.
- Please TURN OFF all electronic devices before the show begins. The use of cameras or recording equipment of any kind is strictly prohibited during the show.
- Please DO NOT text message or use your cell phone to check the time during performances. The light is distracting to the performers and your fellow audience members.
- Please be considerate of those around you by unwrapping candies before the show begins and do not talk, sing or hum during the performance.
- Please be considerate of the performers on stage by remaining in your seat until after the final curtain call.

Thank You!

WHO'S WHO IN GREEK MYTHOLOGY

A guide to the characters that inspired Hadestown.

ORPHEUS—Son of the muse of epic poetry, engaged to marry Eurydice. With his golden voice and lyre, Orpheus charmed all living things, even rocks and stones.

EURYDICE—A dryad, or tree nymph, engaged to marry Orpheus. On the day of their wedding, she was bitten by a poisonous snake, died, and descended to the Underworld.

HADES—God of the dead, ruler of the Underworld, sometimes called "the Wealthy One." He fell in love with, abducted, and married Persephone. Her mother, goddess of the harvest, refused to bless the earth while Persephone was below.

PERSEPHONE—Goddess of the seasons, flowers, fruit, and grain. By arrangement, she spent half the year with Hades in the Underworld, causing fall and winter above. The other half she returned to her mother, bringing spring and summer with her.

HERMES—Fleet-footed guide, messenger of the gods, and conductor of souls to the Underworld. In some tellings, it was Hermes who taught Orpheus to play the lyre.

FATES—Three goddesses who together determined the destinies of mortals, measuring their lifespans and apportioning their suffering.

CHORUS—In ancient Greek theater, the Chorus sang, spoke, and danced in unison. Often representing the voice of the citizens, the Chorus commented on the actions of characters and served as an emotional conduit for the audience.
